LIFE is a spring and hope is tiny.
Bits of quartz shining up through watering pools;
Pricking sun and me with rays of promise. ---Agnes Pratt

Most of the buildings at Stewart are made of native stone which the students helped haul back in the 1920's. Other employees hauled stones from the gold mines in Virginia City and Prison rock quarry to erect the lovely rock homes on campus.

Are Forever Getting Themselves Involved

LOUISE DAVIS, Department Head of Home Economics, was named Carson City's "Woman of the Year." She also won a second trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for being named one of the outstanding 4-H club Alumni leaders in the nation.

This Was Homecoming in '71

IT SNOWED later in the day, but the Stewart Homecoming in 1971 was merely windy!

The band found some old uniforms and paraded over the field, forming an "L" for Lowry and an "S" for Stewart.

Miss Sylvia Polacca, a new student and a senior was crowned queen by Captain Joe Juan. Her attendants were Misses Cynthia Nish and Patricia Little.

After the game, a dance was held in the gym, and the football queen and her attendants were again honored.

Coronation activities were conducted by the Stewart Student Council. President Fred Burson presented flowers to the queen and her attendants.

THE FHA clowns also paraded at Homecoming. They threw candy kisses to the fans and brought on the spirit of Halloween.

QUEEN SYLVIA still can't get that dreamy look out of her eyes as she dances with KING JOE at the Homecoming Dance in their honor.

All of the joys of sense lie in three words: health, peace, competence.

Health is Important, Too!

THE HEALTH center at Stewart is for preventive problems as well as for daily illnesses such as colds. A screening clinic is held at the end of September and it sometimes goes into the early part of October. At this time, problems are detected that should be referred to the specialists on hearing, heart disease, eye problems that require glasses, and chest X rays.

A full time dentist is available to care for problems with teeth. Serious illnesses are referred to the hospital in Schurz or in emergency, taken to Carson City hospital.

Amanda Miguel checks in.

Hector Rios takes his turn at meat cutting in the pre-vocational class in food services for students.

Stewart Headcook Louis J. Klufts gets a certificate and congratulations from Earl Douglas.

STEWART hosted a food service workshop for the entire Phoenix Area in July of 1971. Earl Douglas, director of the food service program at Chemawa Indian School, Chemawa, Oregon was in charge of the workshop. Various participants demonstrated how to prepare Indian frybread and tortillas as well as regular and fancy foods such as cake decorating.

Ernest Lerner directs Stewart's food service program. He is assisted by four cooks and three food service aides. In addition, he teaches pre-vocational food service to a morning and afternoon class. Students find employment at Nevada's casinos as food service helpers while they are still in the class.

Good Food Makes Good Students Better

Chef E. Phillip Lerner

Watch those FINGERS, Mr. Klufts!

FIRST BIG EVENT for Stewart's band after the teacher, Mrs. Jackie Maye, arrived in October was a Christmas concert including both band and chorus. The Pep Band played at basketball games, and once the Governor of Nevada was there. Chorus earned a rating of "Outstanding" at the Spring Northern Nevada Music Education Festival. They performed again for parents who held a Conference at the Nevada Youth Center.

THE PEP BAND opened the Lettermen's tournament of basketball games, the Silver Gloves Tournament and also played for 1972 Baccalaureate and Commencement.

DURING EASTER SEASON, music students presented a spring concert, and the year ended with the chorus singing at Baccalaureate and Commencement. They expect to do the same this year.

THIS YEAR, band got an early start with some students returning a few days early to learn marching, and the band performed at the 1971 football coronation.

Music!

Music! Music!

HOMEcoming was windy, but the Stewart band played on!

Cheerleaders Were the Pride of Stewart

MISS MAURICE HARRIS (left) with the aid of Mrs. Linda Howard, chaperoned four groups of Stewart cheerleaders to Los Angeles, Calif. in August of 1971 to participate in the International Cheerleader's Foundation. There the girls learned new routines and cheers. Dressed in new red and white uniforms, the girls always cause a sensation when they participate at sports events.

Miss Harris spends a lot of time with the girls, taking them on long trips and seeing that they practice their routines daily.

POM-POM GIRLS include Abigail Stevens, Priscilla Waiholo, Violet Pete and Laura Goodwin. JUNIOR VARSITY Include: Peggy Garfield, Catalina Querta, Patricia Narcia, Jerolyn Lewis, Glenda Johns and Cynthia Varella. VARSITY CHEERLEADERS ARE: Cynthia Nish, Jeryle Johnson, Janie Patrick, Kathy Adams, and Cathy Enriquez. FRESH-MAN CHEERLEADERS ARE: Daisy Hoffman, Alvera Valisto, Darlene Antone and Denise Billie.

To Stewart for Many Reasons

Whether it is to see their sons and daughters, to appear in assembly, to entertain, to talk to students about careers; or just to see Stewart for the novelty of being at an off-reservation Indian Boarding School, visitors are always welcome here. BIA officials come frequently, and many other people are regularly seen on campus with the students.

BELOW: Darlene Pond, editor of Harrahscope magazine talks to the journalism class about her job.

STEWART parents held a three-day meeting at the Nevada Youth center in the spring of 1971. They were on campus daily to visit with their sons and daughters. Bud Hurin, head of the athletic department, center, visits with the mothers and sisters of some of his former students.

Nevada Indian Agency

ACROSS THE STREET from Stewart Indian School is the Nevada Indian Agency, serving all the Indian tribes in the state in such matters as land operation, roads, and employment assistance. Jose Abe Zuni, (center in photo on the right) is Superintendent of the Nevada Indian Agency. Paul Nelson, right, is his Administrative Assistant, and William C. Whipple, left, is the Educational Programs Director. Visitors to the Nevada Agency find it convenient to visit the school at the same time. BELOW, left, are the employees who keep the Nevada Agency operating day by day. They are sometimes called "Maintenance Crew" or Plant Management. Art Saxton is the Safety Officer at Stewart.

Stewart Employees are Versatile;

REPRESENTING four races of mankind, employees of Stewart came to Nevada for all kinds of reasons. Only a few were born in the state. Some transferred from other Indian agencies in the Bureau of Indian Affairs; and for two or three, teaching Indians in Nevada's only off-reservation boarding school presented a challenge.

They Come from Various Places

STEWART is a vocationally-oriented school. Major areas of instruction include trades technical, ranch management and forestry, nursing and pre-medical professions, business, food service, mediart training for teacher aides, commercial art, home economics, and if a student wants to attend college, the courses in math, English and science are available to him. The school emphasizes pre-vocations.

THIS YEAR, under the Impact program of Title I, Stewart Indian School received approximately $50,000 for a target group of 30 boys and 30 girls to repair and decorate lounges and entrance-ways to school facilities used by all students.

This included such things as living rooms and play rooms in the dormitories, the student union building known as Novake, plus the school auditorium erected in 1925.

Bob Kinne was director of the project.

Pre-High Had Special Treatment at SIS

PRE-HIGH students held most of their classes this year in the building back of the Nevada Agency which was the reading center in 1970-71. Two teachers, John Elliston, below left, and Mrs. Mary Gentry, right, taught them the basic skills, and they had a special reading teacher under the Title I program to assist them with all their reading problems. In addition, the young men and women between the ages of 14 and 16, attended music classes with the high school students.

THEY ALSO came to the vocational shop building and to the high school home economics department to get special exploratory instruction in trades technical and home economics. A group of selected pre-high students spent four days in Davis, California attending the University of California, and they spent one day in Sacramento at the Sacramento State college to learn what college life was like. LEON COWAN is the Special Education Department Head at Stewart, and he makes every effort to involve the pre-high students in culture exchange.

Visitors Talked Every Friday

STEWART READING Center accommodated 125 students from pre-high through grade 12 who were in need of reading improvement habits. Every Friday, students heard a guest speaker or saw a special film selected to spur interest in reading. Speakers included a Karate expert, a woman political news analyst (Vicki Nash) who is the widow of a former Stewart coach. Others included an ace pilot, who showed parts of enemy planes he shot down; a blind man who explained how he lived without sight, and a Narcotics specialist with the Carson City Sheriff's department. He spoke to a captive audience.

Reading Center Was Exciting, Man!

A YOUNG BLACK Karate expert from Reno told the students he hated school when he was a student, but he learned that he had to concentrate "just like his teacher tried to make him do in school" before he was able to break concrete blocks and inch boards with his bare hands.

STANLEY WAGGONER, shop teacher, and former employee of Job Corps, directed the 1972 Vocational Guidance Program at Stewart. Students took field trips through various plants, saw films, heard speakers discuss various jobs, and were given books and pamphlets. PPS tested them for aptitude.

Vocational Guidance is Emphasized in All

THE MANY AREAS of Food Service as a vocation were emphasized. Students were detailed periodically to work as waiters and dishwashers in the school cafeteria.

A group of students were selected by the Impact Project to receive special training in food service. They assisted with both morning and evening meals in the kitchen, learning Institutional cooking.

Areas of Study at Stewart

RESOURCE PEOPLE were invited practically every week to visit various classrooms at Stewart and to talk to the students about vocations. BELOW, Morrell R. Sexton, Program Director for Indian Training Program in the state of Arizona, was a frequent visitor. He showed films and talked to the students about opportunities available to people with their talents and backgrounds. BELOW RIGHT: The Ecology Class learns about a forest and the duties of a forest ranger from the ranger himself.

STUDENTS ENROLLED in the department of Mediart did a variety of things. They studied art, painted, dabbled with clay, making pottery; and they learned many arts and crafts. Some learned about photography and journalism, and it was these students who put together this yearbook. Sixteen students enrolled as Teacher Aids in this department. They learned to operate all the audio-visual machines such as movie projectors, film strip machines and record players. THE LAST SEMESTER, Mediart students painted portions of the ceiling in the hall with Indian designs and they prepared bulletin boards and actually worked nine weeks as teacher aids.

Trades Technical Emphasizes "World

TRADES TECHNICAL, formerly called Vocational Shop, introduces students to carpentry, plumbing, painting, welding, masonry, building construction, ranching, farming, irrigation, heavy equipment operation, and even forestry and food services.

of Work"

PHOENIX AREA Director of Education, Ray Sorenson, (back to camera) wades into the school's alfalfa stubble.

Home Economics

STEWART'S HOME ECONOMICS classes, which are under the Department of Trades Technical, are staffed by four teachers and one teacher supervisor. All freshman and sophomore girls are required to take home economics. In this area, they learn about such professions as nursing, interior decorating, and of course the traditional occupations in food and clothing and home management. FAYE BURSON, left, entered state competition with her coat in the "Miss Wool" contest.

Emphasizes Food, Clothing, and Social Graces

Girls in the sewing classes are taught good grooming and how to make their own clothes.

Some of the girls made their own uniforms to wear when they were cheerleaders or members of drill team.

ACTIVITIES*

WHEN THE first draft of the Students' Bill of Rights and Responsibilities was published, all members of the Student Council were treated to a steak dinner at the Carson City Nuggett. Above: PPS Director Leonard Dickerson, President Stanley Darrell, Student Activities Director Al Tyler, Secretary Mary Lopez, and Principal James C. Simpson.

Student Council Wrote a Bill of Rights

STUDENT COUNCIL: (Front row) Glenda Johns, Laura Goodwin, Carmen Berraras, Johnny Valencia, Randy Beade, Stanley Darrell, Judy Johnson, Opehlia Rivas, Mary Lopez, and Earl Ray. BACK ROW: Nicholas Jose, Duane Mapatis, Dexter Wathogoma, Pamela Enos, Cynthia Nish, and Student Activities Director Albert Tyler.

GOOD FOOD became the first priority of Student Council. Department Heads were invited to assist members of the Student Council in serving a special Christmas Breakfast to students before they left for a two-weeks vacation. Later, Student Council members supervised students employed by Impact who assisted in cooking and serving food daily. In this way, they learned responsibility as well as better table manners.

and Responsibilities

NO ONE WORKED harder at making the Bill of Rights and Responsibilities work than Activities Director Albert Tyler, below. Here he stirs up something for breakfast on a moment's notice. Employee negotiators for the Bill of Rights included Leon Cowan, Ray Brandenburg, James C. Simpson, George Moran, Mrs. Dorothy Harmon, Wm. C. Whipple, Howard Brunje, and Bill Cordes.

Dorm Life Was All This. .and More

A SCHOOL DORM is a home away from home. At Stewart this year, it was a place where the girls moved constantly to make way for carpeting, repainting of walls, and re-arrangement of furnishings. Some girls lived in an Honors Dorm which was formerly the young mens' home. (They moved out, naturally!) Hobbies such as beadwork, weaving and knitting proved to be money-making activities for those who continued and made items that could be sold.

Boys' Dorms Got Remodeled

WHEN SCHOOL began in September, the boys' dorms at Stewart were all in a bad state of repair. Plant Management hired additional carpenters, painters and plumbers to assist with the remodeling. This, plus all the decorating and "home living" instigated by the Impact Project improved their living quarters greatly. The boys' dorms truly were "Homes away from Home."

MISS LOUISE DAVIS, Home economics department head, demonstrates how a hostess can carve a ham when she has no host to do it for her. (Upper Left). Mrs. Mary Warren speaks briefly to the faculty immediately after she was given a 30-year BIA Service pin by Education Programs Director William C. Whipple.

Social Activities Were Formal as Well

PARTICIPATION at the Junior-Senior banquet and prom was just as formal as it could be made. The theme was "Spring," and students as well as invited guests arrived in a "rainbow" of colors where they danced under a canopy of twisted crepe paper and imaginary stars.

DID ANYONE ever think that perhaps the habit of reading the morning paper at the breakfast table actually begins at school? It does happen. Also, smoke sometimes gets into the eyes of amateur chefs when they attempt a 4-H Club barbecue as George Moran and Roger Sam are doing (left).

As Informal

CHRISTMAS VACATION, all students left campus. The first snow, Nevada Day Parade, a new single man on the faculty... added up to an exciting year. Fred Burson and Cathy Enriquez got published in a book and received a prize.

These Were Memorable Moments

A Corps of Girl Cadets was also organized. Both the groups received training from the Ormsby County Sheriff's Department. Young men worked part time patrolling Nevada's Capital city with Carson City Policemen.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS conclude their year with a formal tea party, usually at the home of their "Mother" sponsor, Miss Louise Davis, Chairman of the Home Economics Department. President Janice Eben presents a gift to club sponsor, Mrs. Rosalee Goodwin.

Future Nurses

GIRLS ENROLLED in Health Occupations worked at the Carson-Tahoe Hospital and also at the Stewart Dental clinic as a part of their vocational training. They participated in many health-related activities, and will travel to Haskell Junior College in Lawrence, Kansas as an educational trip. Miss Myrtle Patterson sponsored this group and served as their instructor in the classroom. Above, left, Tora Greeley and Leora Burrows clean teeth as a learning experience in the Dental clinic. Above, right, Carmen Berraras, Suzanna Patten, Faye Burson and Leora Burrows check cards for the Trachoma clinic.

4-H CLUB

STEWART 4-H Clubs are all under the guiding hand of Louise Davis, named one of the eight outstanding specialists in the nation. Roger Sam's project is fat steers. He had 14 students, six of them girls, enrolled this year. Other projects included Oriental Cooking with Irene Kurahara as sponsor, crochet, with Edythe Drummond as sponsor, and Mary Gentry had a knitting club for pre-high. Boys as well as girls made beautiful garments. Last year, 19 clubs competed at Stewart about the middle of April, since most of the students are out of the state at the regular state competition in August. This many clubs are expected to participate this year, and as the yearbook goes to press, all the projects are not known.

Varsity Won No Games in '71

THE STEWART VARSITY football session in 1971 seemed rather a long one as they finished a winless season--a far cry from last year's 4-4 record that had them ranked at the top part of the time.

This year, the braves were under a new head coach, Ben Blinn. They lost several key players last year and some of the players this year were injured early in the year and were unable to play in later games. Blinn has high hopes for a better team next year when some of the sophomores and juniors will be more experienced and heavier.

Junior Varsity Won One Game

THE YEAR OF 1971 was discouraging for all the Stewart football teams. The Junior Varsity under coaches Robey Willis and Leonard Allen won their first game, but that was the only one.

When the Varsity players were injured, some of the Junior Varsity players were chosen to take their place, and this weakened the JV's considerably.

Vernon Sisto, an Apache from San Carlos, Arizona has been a member of the Cross-Country team for four years.

Co-Captain Edward Juan, a Papago from Anegam, Arizona has been running with the team for three years.

Captain Carlos Johnson, a Pima from Santan, Arizona has been with the Cross-Country team for three years.

Cross-Country Placed Second in the State

Varsity Basketball

VARSTY BASKETBALL COACH Bud Hurin was disappointed when he had only twelve young men, most of the season, to come out for basketball practice. Nevertheless, it was a dandy dozen, and they the Stewart Lettermen's Tournament and some other games over the state where the odds seemed stacked against them. Left to right, BACK ROW: Rodney Hawley, Damon Clark, Roy Dunn, Gordon George, Delbert Jackson, Terrance Bates, Manager Sammy Smith and Coach Hurin. BOTTOM ROW: John Antonio, Leonard Jones, Ronald Wopsock, Robert Redcap, and Joe Ramon.

JV'S Follow Footsteps of Former Athletes

The Junior Varsity Basketball team played hard. They will be able to fill the shoes of Varsity seniors who graduate in 1972.

Junior Varsity Made a Great Showing

BELOW: Three members of the Junior Varsity squad demonstrate three different kinds of shots. The Junior Varsity was coached by Allen Hill and some others, including Athletic Director Bud Hurin.

Boxing Was a Serious Matter at Stewart

A TOTAL of 18 young men joined the Stewart Boxing Club in 1972. They were coached by Robey Willis, social studies teacher. This made the third year for the club to function. The young men have participated in active contact with competitive clubs both in Nevada and out of the state. To work out, the members of the boxing club exercise, spar with each other, and run at least three miles daily. Boxing has become a popular sport in the area. So far this year, Stewart has won over Elko County, Nixon, the Reno Jets, and they hope to win recognition at the Silver Gloves Tournament which will be the final bout. They have placed second in this final tournament for the past two years.

Boxers Took More Trophies than Any Other Sport

SECOND SQUAD (Weight over 140 lbs.)

Edwin Moffett,
Aloyouis Homer,
Chuck Jackson,
Bradley Thomas,
(Manager)
Burchard Kochamp,

in just about every competition.
They won 14
straight bouts before this yearbook went to press, with prospects of

These Were the Varsity Cheerleaders

"Sharing excitement with our squad, and feeling pride as a part of the MIGHTY BRAVES is my treasure for always."
Cathy Enriquez

"Cheering for the Braves, especially Ron, was what I liked at SIS. I will be back in the future, but only as a fan. Jeryle Johnson

IN THE FALL, the yearbook staff started out as a class in the production of an annual. After nine weeks, when the teacher transferred to the English department, the work had to be continued as an activity. Most of the regular class members contributed to the making of this book.

If You Thought It Was Easy—Try It!

THE STAFF hopes that the 1972 DESERT BRAVES annual will reflect many happy memories in the future for you. We especially thank our advisor and teacher, Mrs. Ruby Shannon for taking and printing pictures, and for her assistance in other matters.
